True flexible working

As the global demand to work from anywhere on any device increases, mobility has become part of our lives.

The Xelion mobile app keeps users in control of their business communications no matter the location. Xelion allows users to be available on any device, from anywhere, at anytime, and provides them with unlimited access to all the popular features while on the move.

Xelion users can use click-to-dial, access wallboards and chat, as well as present their business number when dialling through the app.

Xelion is a pure extension of your business telephony. It's no longer necessary to be in the office to manage, make or receive calls.

The Xelion mobile app allows users to access the same communication features as they would on a desktop, and calls can be managed via the calls window.
